League's Right Of Investigation Argued

Italy Holds Crisis Is Not Problem For League

GENEVA, Sept. 5.—(By the Associated Press)—Italy's representative, M. Salandra, told the council of the League of Nations today that Italy would regard intervention of the league in the Greco-Italian crisis as unjustified. The League, he asserted, had no competency in the affair, which belonged properly to the Interallied Council of Ambassadors.

The Italian government expressed its irrevocable opinion through him that the council should not accept the Greek request that the League take up the matter. By her appeal, said Signor Salandra, Greece sought to escape her responsibilities. He emphasized that the present Greek government had not yet been recognized by a great number of countries, hence the necessity of Italy's seeking to obtain satisfaction for the assassination of the Tolin mission. The ambassadors' council, he said, was the legitimate body to handle the incident because the question of living up to the terms of the peace treaty was concerned. If the League closed its eyes to this fact, it would be acting in excess of its powers, he declared.

M. Pothis, former Greek foreign minister, in reply said Greece had no desire to escape her responsibilities, and showed her good faith by refusing the appointment of neutral commissions of investigation.

A crowd gathered before the door of the room where the council was convened, struggling for admission and the ushers were often swept away as the eager visitors, including many women, formed flying wedges and surged into the chamber. The members of the council themselves gained access with difficulty.

Signor Salandra's statement created a sensation in the council chamber, which had many Americans among the spectators.

Lord Robert Cecil, of England, said, in a denunciation by insisting that articles 10, 12 and 16 of the covenant of the League of Nations should be read immediately both in French and in English, and by declaring that if these articles were to be disregarded, the whole settlement of Europe would be shaken.

Articles in question were cited by Greece as the basis of her appeal to the League and stipulated that the council of the League has a clear right to an investigation when there is disruption between any who are members of the League.

Discussion of Greco-Italian crisis was adjourned to an undetermined date, but perhaps tomorrow, in order to give the members of the council an opportunity to examine the Italian declaration and decide upon their future attitude in the crisis, which is generally regarded as having been aggravated by Signor Salandra's pronouncement.

Manhattan To Raise Million For Japanese Relief

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—(By the Associated Press)—A relief fund of at least $1,000,000 for stricken Japan was expected in this city today. Whatever the final estimate of the number of dead in ruined Tokyo and Yokohama might be, relief workers knew that only the most unusual measures could prevent the death of countless thousands of refugees from starvation and exposure.

Response to the many appeals was universal and instantaneous.

The bulk of the fund is expected from the business houses and individuals representing all phases of the city's social and financial life.

Contributions were pouring in to the Red Cross in steady flow last night. One of the largest was for $100,000 from a banking affiliation.

Plucky Frenchman Means To Win Bet, And It Seems He Will

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—(By the Associated Press)—Eighty-four days out of Gibraltar, alone in a battered 35-foot sloop, in heavy seas about 200 miles off Nantucket light, F. Gerbault, a French seaman, last week refused a tow to port by the Greek liner Captain Vlachis related today on arrival from Greek ports.

Gerbault was seen standing clad only in underwear, despite bitter cold and rolling seas on the deck of his diminutive craft, waving his arms furiously and shouting in French. After explaining that he was crossing the ocean on a bet of 500,000 francs bound for New York, and that two other schooners which had left Gibraltar with him, had disappeared, the hardy Frenchman asked that his empty water bags and food be hoisted, took his bearings and went on his way.

Articles in question were cited by Greece as the basis of her appeal to the League and stipulated that the council of the League has a clear right to an investigation when there is disruption between any who are members of the League.

Germans Near End Of Financial Ability

BERLIN, Sept. 5.—(By the Associated Press)—Germany has arrived at the end of her tether, so far as her further ability to finance passive resistance is concerned.

"This is the current impression in banking circles, which expect that Germany in the course of the next few days will take the initiative in the direction of proposing that official discussion be begun with the French and Belgian governments."

Japanese Meeting Disaster Stoically

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright 1923)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—The throbs of human sympathy, dulled in the years since the war by self-interest, beat fast for the people of distant Japan today. The entire government strove to help. Distance and inadequate communication made its efforts of little avail.

From every side have come messages of sympathy and condolence to the Imperial Japanese embassy, where the tragedy of far off Japan has been to some extent conjured. For not one member of the embassy staff has heard a word from his family since the earthquake. Quietly and with characteristic stoicism, the Japanese officials go about their work, hiding their business shock. There is no outward change of expression, no panicky hurry in the embassy's work, simply a methodical application to the countless details suddenly imposed on the embassy staff.

Judging by the words and districts named in the press despatches, Japanese officials estimate that between seven and eight millions of people are directly affected by the earthquake and fire and that almost the entire population of the island empire will feel the business shock.

What can America do? The Japanese are grateful for the expressions of sympathy and the offers of help. They themselves can give little aid. They know nothing of the transportation facilities available. The two

Thousands Were Gathered In Park When Quake Shook Jap Capital

(By Oto Takata, Assistant Foreign Editor of Asahi Minchi. Written for The United Press. Copyrighted by The United Press, 1923. Copyrighted in Canada.)

OSAKA, Sept. 5.—(By the United Press)—As wan and starved and crippled refugees are drifting into Osaka and other points outside the area of destruction, it is now possible for the first time to construct the complete story, telling of earthquake and fire which wiped out Yokohama, razed Tokyo, and brought death and injury to unnumbered thousands.

Yokohama, virtually disappeared, Tokyo is but the shadow of the city that was a few days ago the pride of the Orient.

Smoldering ruins, caps in the hard-baked earth, the stench of the dead, the cries of the dying, literally millions wandering here and there in search of food; wreckage, suffering, destruction on every side; these things tell the story of the violence of the acres of the Land of Cherry Blossoms.

Science, inventions, all that the minds of Eastern-Western civilization have built in recent generations, broke down before the crushing, grinding, consuming powers of nature. Gas mains, constructed as means of comfort, became agents of death.

Idleness Is Lot Of Miners When Fall Approaches

HAZLETON, PENNA., Sept. 5.—(By the Associated Press)—The suspension of anthracite mining this year comes at an inopportune time, so far as the chances of the men getting work at other jobs is concerned. Last year when the collieries were idle from April 1 to the middle of September, many miners found places on building operations, public improvement projects and the like.

With fall approaching the demand for labor is not what it is in the spring and hence, if the mines are shut down for any length of time, a majority of the coal diggers may have nothing to do.

While the effects of the long suspension of 1922 are still felt by many of the mine workers, they say they welcome a period of rest after a steady grind since a year ago. This month they expect the heavy demand for fuel. The miners seem to feel that the suspension will be short lived, although they declare they will "stick it out" as long as their scale committee wants them to.

Having had no vacations during the summer, the miners with some money to spare will take advantage of the suspension to make short trips to various points to see relatives or friends.

The street corners of the anthracite counties and towns are lively these days. Large groups of miners stand around discussing the situation and eagerly awaiting news of the negotiations.

Official Message Places Capital Toll At 160,000 Dead

OSAKA, Sept. 5.—(By the Associated Press)—Approximately 10,000 refugees fleeing from the ruins of Tokyo, were burned to death in the yard of a military clothing factory in the industrial suburb of Honjo.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—(By the Associated Press)—Two messages received today at the offices of the Japan consul general estimated the casualties at Tokyo and the vicinity from the earthquake at 160,000 with one million persons homeless.

OSAKA, Sept. 5.—(By the Associated Press)—Water and provisions are reported still scarce in Tokyo. Three persons are sharing a single piece of bread.

UNITED STATES DIPLOMATS DIE AT YOKOHAMA
LONDON, Sept. 5.—(By the Associated Press)—London correspondent of the Osaka Mainichi Shinbun today received a cable message from Osaka naming as among the foreigners missing in the disaster at Yokohama, the American Vice Consul, Paul E. Jenks, and Commercial Attache Babbitt.

AMBASSADOR SEEKS AID; SEND FOOD, IS PLEA
WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—(By the Associated Press)—All American Ambassadors were urged today to state the department. Estimates of the dead in Tokyo were placed by the Ambassador at ten thousand. He stated that some Americans in Yokohama had been killed. Communication with Yokohama, he said, had been opened.

Ambassador Woods' message was sent by wireless from Iwakai yesterday. "Communication has just been opened with Yokohama; the situation there exceedingly serious, and some Americans are reported to have lost their lives."

"The casualties in Tokyo are estimated at ten thousand. I believe Americans in Tokyo are safe. The food situation is acute. Send supplies from Philippines at once as already requested."

A dispatch from the American Consul at Kobe under date of September fourth, forwarded to the department by Edward Bell, Charge d'Affaires in Tokyo, indicated that refugees from Yokohama confirmed reports that the consulate general there was completely destroyed, and that Kirijessoff, principal consul, and his wife were killed.

ONE HUNDRED FOREIGNERS DEAD IN YOKOHAMA
PEKING, Sept. 5.—(By the Associated Press)—One hundred foreigners are believed to have perished in Yokohama, says a Reuters' dispatch from Osaka received here this afternoon. The dead include the American and British Consuls.

(By the Associated Press)
As the story of the Japanese disaster is unfolded in the form of daily messages from press associations, correspondents, Japanese newspapers and individuals, it is apparent that magnitude of the catastrophe, has not been overdrawn.

In only one dispatch has there been a suggestion that the death list will reach the proportions already indicated. This was a message from the Radio Corporation of America in Japan which said the Japanese consular office estimated the dead in Tokyo at 10,000, in Yokohama at 100,000.

On the other hand, Admiral Edw. A. Anderson, commanding the United States Asiatic fleet, says the latest unofficial reports give the casualties in the capital and Yokohama as 240,000 dead and 450,000 injured. A wireless message from Admiral Elmer, chief of naval operations, conveying this estimate, was picked up in San Francisco. Navy officials in San Francisco, believe that Admiral Anderson, who is speeding to Japanese waters, obtained advices of conditions in Japan by radio before communicating with Rear Admiral Elmer.

Another estimate, this one coming from the Eastern News Agency, says that 320,000 persons have been killed in the entire stricken district.

Fresh calamity has overtaken stricken Tokyo and the terror-stricken remnants of its population.

Nearly 10,000 people seeking refuge in the military clothing factory, located in a suburb, were trapped by flames and buried to death. Food and water are scarce in the capital.

Two hundred and sixteen distinct earth shocks were felt in Tokyo last Saturday, followed by 37 on Sunday.

Woman Rider To Take Up Burden Of Revived Pony Express

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 5.—(By the Associated Press)—Across the vast stretches of isolation in Utah's mountainous northwest area the pony express rider rode today, having covered more than 1,400 miles of the epoch making revival of the pony express from St. Joseph to San Francisco.

Utah riders took over the burden at Vernal at 3:32 p. m. yesterday when the last Colorado rider, Ralph Salsbery, of Denver, dropped the mail at that place after riding in record time from Craig, Colorado, to Vernal.

Salsbery, spanning the 104 miles between the two towns in six hours and 34 minutes.

The actual running time of the pony express riders when Vernal was reached yesterday, was 84 hours.

A 17-year-old daughter of the West, Miss Myrtle Gardner, of Roosevelt, Utah, will carry the mail from Park City Canyon, 100 miles distant, to this city. Miss Gardner is an expert horsewoman.

Governor Mabey and other state officials and Mayor Nealen, of Salt Lake City, will welcome the rider as she dismounts in front of the Federal building in the heart of its downtown district and her mail is transferred to a relief rider.

Republicans Name Campaign Committee

The opening salute of the municipal campaign was fired by the Republican City Central Committee at a meeting held last night, when plans were formulated for the fight at the polls in November by naming an executive committee, headed by Attorney Harry W. Miller, chairman, to manage the campaign.

The committee selected is composed of these women and men: Harry W. Miller, chairman; Henry Bertram, vice-chairman; Arnold Schapiro, secretary; Frank Stanton, Dr. J. W. Hutchens, George Koerner, Walter Bowen, Mrs. Cynthia Lanz, Mrs. W. E. Gault, William Moore, Lee Smith, Dan

Thomas, O. E. Rickey and H. H. Stallard. M. A. Coe, chairman of the county central committee, was chosen to serve in a like capacity to the city central committee at the meeting last night, which was attended by virtually all the Republican candidates, and a plea for a united party was sounded.

Machines Damaged In Trail Collision

Machines driven by Miss Elizabeth Locke of Gallia street, this city, and George T. Watters, a salesman for the Brown Shoe company of St. Louis, and who lives at Buena Vista, were damaged Wednesday morning when they collided on the Scioto Trail near the Lucasville Fair Grounds.

Mr. Watters was driving north on the Trail on his way to Pittsburg and Miss Locke was driving in the same direction, being on her way to Cincinnati to attend the Fall Festival, when her car ran into the back end of the Watters machine. Both cars were damaged and Mr. Watters suffered a sprained back when thrown out of his seat. Repairs were made to his machine at Lucasville and he was later able to continue his journey. Miss Locke and mother, Mrs. L. G. Locke, and sister, Katherine, were forced to return to Portsmouth.

Plans for the County Convention of the Churches of Christ in Scioto county are going forward, and some interest is being aroused in the annual gathering, according to the President, Rev. Chas. Reinhard of Sciotoville.

The convention is to be held at the Grandview Avenue Church of Christ on Thursday Sept. 20, when delegates from all the churches in the county are to gather for a conference in regard to the work of the kingdom. Rev. E. D. Murch, field secretary for the state organization will be the main speaker, but he will be assisted by a representative of the Women's organization together with the following local speakers: L. E. Craden, Mrs. Gerald Culbertson and Rev. W. L. Huffman.

At the afternoon session, Mrs. O'Neal of the New Boston church will be in charge of the devotion, while the open forum will be in charge of the women's representative.

Church Convention Sept. 20

The evening session will feature two main addresses, one by Rev. Murch and another by the women's representative.

The ladies of the Grandview church have planned to prepare for the noonday lunch for those who come from a distance and for delegates who wish to stay at the church and also the evening meal, so that it will be unnecessary for those who come from a distance to hunt for a restaurant or place to eat. The ladies have asked those who intend to be at the church from lunch to please call John Bridwell and tell him the number who expect to attend that they may prepare enough for all.

At the afternoon session, Mrs. O'Neal of the New Boston church will be in charge of the devotion, while the open forum will be in charge of the women's representative.

Dempsey In Last Week Of Grind

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Sept. 5.—(By The A. P.)—Jack Dempsey started his final week of training today in preparation of defensive of his world's heavyweight championship against Luis Angel Firpo at the Polo Ground a week from Friday night.

Dempsey plans to work with the mauling, hard-hitting heavyweights for the balance of the week and then switch to light sparring partners to put him on edge. This task will fall to Jimmy Delaney, a 160 pounder, of St. Paul, Minn., who helped condition Tommy Gibbons for his match with Dempsey last July 4. Refreshed by his lay-off yesterday, Dempsey, in the opinion of his handlers, is in superb physical and mental condition for the final spurt of his training campaign.

Harry Blake Real Slugger

That Harry Blake, known to his many friends as "Biggy" has found his batting eye shown by the record he made in the last two games while playing with Mt. Sterling against Marsville. In nine trips to the plate Blake got seven hits, one of which was a home run, two triples, two doubles and two singles. There was never any question about Blake's ability as a fielder. All that was needed for him to develop into a worthy successor of his late father was his ability to hit and now that he is pounding the ball, there is every likelihood that he will soon be performing in the big show. Several big league teams, it is said, are anxious to give him a trial and he will doubtless be sold before the season is much older.

Klansmen Meet

Several new members were taken into the local order of the Ku Klux Klan at a meeting held last night. It was reported that about 60 robed klansmen took part in the last rites for William Walden of Sciotoville. At that time the klansmen presented as a tribute a large floral emblem in the shape of a white cross with the symbolic letters K. K. K. in red roses.

Plans were completed for 400 members of the local order to attend a state wide konklave to be held in Springfield. Those attending will leave early Saturday morning. In the near future there will be a public open air demonstration and initiation ceremony here, the klansmen aver.

Christian Churches To Hold Outing

For Saturday afternoon and evening at Millbrook park, is planned one great time for all members of the four Christian churches in the city: First Christian, Grandview avenue, New Boston and Sciotoville.

The time is as soon after dinner as the members care to come and to continue until the evening, when the lunch will be spread and those present be filled with good things. It is the first picnic planned by the Christian churches and it is hoped to make it an annual affair, one that will be an event in the social life of the churches. It will be made to include all the Churches of Christ in the county and will be a time of rejoicing, of fun and fellowship.

The New Boston church, or rather the Bible school, will have charge of the drinks and plenty of lemonade will be made for all. Automobiles, trucks and street car will afford the means to reach the park and every one is advised to get there as soon as possible.

In a big picnic day like this, some one should be responsible to start something and the committee has placed John R. Williams, T. L. Wall, and Lloyd Craden on a committee to start it, and help keep it going and from the personell of this committee and past performances, there should be nothing lacking in the way of fun and frolic for the meeting.

Friends of the churches will be invited and will help to make the first picnic one to be remembered. No one is barred from this good time social event.

Manager Adam Frick of the Chamber of Commerce said today when asked if the C. of C. would take part in the relief work to be tendered to Japan, "As Ohioans and true Americans, we sympathize with stricken Japan and stand ready to help if a demand is made of us. The C. of C. in none of the cities are taking this matter up but it is left to the Governors of the states."

Reports show that persons number in the thousands have lost their lives and homes have been completely demolished by the earthquakes, fires and tidal waves. Supplies are being rushed by ship to the unfortunate island but it is believed that the amount of supplies can only give temporary relief. It is expected that a general movement will be started in this country for the relief of the stricken people in Japan."

This Guy, Firpo Tough Gink;
Eats Raw Meat, Bathes In Ice
Water; Sleeps in Corner

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 5.—(By the A. P.)—If P. T. Barnum were living he would employ Luis Angel Firpo in a tent and write a sign on the front, "The Argentine wild man—eats raw meat, bathes in ice water, washes with common soap and sleeps on a bed of rocks," and tell the truth. The South American bathes in ice water and uses the commonest kind of American soap. Between meals he goes into the kitchen, passes the time of day with Al Bertino, the Chef and takes a piece of uncooked sirloin to chew upon. And when time for retiring comes and the trainers, the interpreters and the sparring partners hop into their beds, Luis Angel goes to his room, takes the mattress off the couch, throws it on the floor and lies down to rest. When morning comes and it is time to get up, he usually may be found curled up in a corner of the floor. "Beds," says he, "are uncomfortable."

Spire Tells Another Story About Adams County Murder

WEST UNION, O., September 5.—It became known Tuesday during the preliminary trial of Frank Jenkins, arrested at Portsmouth in connection with the Robert Morris murder mystery here, that John Spire, the first man arrested in the case and who is said to have named Jenkins as a member of the party along with Frank Moore, had changed his story in parts. Deputy Sheriff W. W. White who was called as one of the witnesses, in the state disclosed the fact that Spire had made changes in his alleged confessions. According to White's testimony Spire now says that he was in the big touring car with Morris and claims that Jenkins and Moore were in a Ford car following. He says that the fatal shooting occurred near Wameleville, before Spire had maintained that he rode alone in the Ford behind the death car and that Moore and the other man, now supposed to be Jenkins, were in the big car and that he did not know who fired the shot that killed Morris.

Jenkins was arrested in Portsmouth recently by the police for Adams county authorities. Deputy White returned Jenkins to this place. Jenkins' examining trial was held Monday before Squire Wm. Cooper. Attorney Thos. K. Funk who represents Frank Moore who is held in jail here was present at the trial.

William Francis and Claude Tolle, members of the fishing party that found the body of Morris almost beyond recognition on the banks of a creek near the village, Undertaker O. C. Robuck, Dr. S. J. Ellison, acting Deputy Sheriff Henry Cooper and Deputy W. W. White, were witnesses for the state.

Attorney Blair then called Spire to the stand as the first witness for the defense. Spire refused to testify and when the court ruled that he did not have to testify Judge Blair said that the defense did not have anything more. Jenkins was then held to the grand jury without bond. Later Judge Blair asked that Jenkins be given an examining trial before the probate judge. This plea was granted and next Tuesday was the date set for the trial.

Among the Portsmouth persons brought here to act as witnesses for the defense but who were not called were Samuel Crawford, Will Brooks, Henry Hardin, Garfield Jenkins, Elza Schaninger, Len Shonkewiler, S. Shonkewiler, Pearl Mason, Annie Siambaugh, Ben Seymour and Theodore Catter.

Condition Continues Serious

There was little or no improvement noted yesterday and over last night in the condition of Attorney Alex C. "Sandy" Woodrow, genial local lawyer, who lies in Hempstead hospital suffering from a skull fracture as a result of a fall down a flight of stairs at his office and apartments, 535 Third street, Sunday midnight.

The patient remained in a semi-conscious condition but a favorable symptom developed yesterday when he recognized his sister, Mrs. J. W. Kirkland, of Columbus, and spoke to her. Mrs. Kirkland came to Portsmouth Monday night upon learning of the accident and she is constantly at the bedside of her injured brother. Attorney Woodrow is suffering from a fracture which extends through the right temporal bone to the base of the brain and while there is still some danger of internal hemorrhage his chances of recovery are increasing each hour, according to attending surgeons, and the many friends of the injured hardy were encouraged today by the news that this complication has not developed as was at first feared.

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

Godfrey Cornet sends his son, Ned, on a voyage to Northern Canada and Alaska to exchange two thousand silk and velvet gowns with the Indians for five furs. Godfrey offers to split the profits 75-25, the lion's share to Ned.

Cornet is engaged to Lenore Hardworth, who offers to accompany Ned on the trip if he will take her mother with them. Ned hires Bess Gilbert to go as seamstress. The party is God-speed by hosts of friends.

Godfrey Cornet comes to the dock to bid goodbye. He asks Miss Gilbert to give his son a woman's care. Mrs. Hardworth objects to eating at the same table with the seamstress. Bess makes up her mind to avoid the three aristocrats as much as possible.

NOW GO ON WITH THE MONEY
That's three for each table, considering one of the men has to stay at the wheel. Why shouldn't one of these plates be removed?
"Of course, if you prefer it," half astamed of his reluctance, he called the negro and had the fourth plate removed. "Miss Gilbert will eat at the second table," he explained. When the man had gone, Ned turned to appeal to Lenore. "She'll be here in a minute. What shall I tell her?"

"Just what you told the servant—that she is to wait for the second table. Ned, you might as well make it clear in the beginning, otherwise it will be a problem all through the trip. Wait till she comes in, then tell her."

Ned agreed, and they waited for the sound of Bess's step on the stair. Mrs. Hardworth's large lips were set in a hard line. Lenore had a curious, eager expectancy. Quickly Julius served the soup, wondering at the ways of his superiors, the whites, and the long seconds grew into minutes. Still they did not see Bess's bright face at the door.

"Send for her," Mrs. Hardworth ordered. "There's no reason why she shouldn't get this done and out of the way tonight, so we won't have to be distressed about it again."

Wholly covered, Ned called to the negro waiter. "Please tell Miss Gilbert to come here," he ordered.
A life-size crackling his cheeks, standing and assuming that the boat had returned to its purpose to examine the seamstress from the first table, the colored man sped cheerfully away. Bess had already spoken kindly to him; Julius had deplored the order to remove her plate almost as a personal affront.
Again they waited for the seamstress to come. The women were again forbidding. In a moment they heard steps at the threshold. But only Julius, his face beaming with pleasure, came through the open door. He had the soup, and he was smiling. "But she's already promised Miss McNeil to eat with him."

VII
The Charron sped straight north, out of the Sound, through the inside passage. Days were bright; skies were clear, displaying at night a starry host of stars, the seas shined from the kindly September sun. They put in at Vancouver the night following their departure from Seattle, loaded on certain heavy stores and continued their way in the lee of Vancouver Island. After day! To McNab, a man who had cruised ten years on Alaskan waters, the air began to feel like home. It was crisp, surging cool in the lungs, fragrant with balsam from the wooded islands. Already Ned had begun to adjust himself to the new life, the new North. It was no longer easy to believe that his father had exaggerated its beauty and its appeal. Its desolation and its vastness. It was a strange thing for a man used to cities to go day upon day without seeing a single human being other than those of his own party. Here was one place, it seemed, that the hand of man had touched but lightly if at all.

The impression grew the farther north he went. Even the sea was less sign of habitation upon the shore. The craft passed through narrow channels between mountains that cropped up from the sea, it skirted wooded islands, it passed forgotten Indian villages where the totem poles stood naked and weathered, and before the forest brought out a wonderful land scene just beyond the reach of their unaided sight—glacier and snowslide, lofty peaks and waterfalls. The mystic, brooding spirit of the North was already on them. They had touched at Ketchikan, and thence headed almost straight west, across the Gulf of Alaska and toward the far-reaching end of the Alaskan Peninsula. During these days they were far out of sight of land, and the only human contact was the occasional point of view, a disillusioned point of view, a realization that the sea was the sea and the land was the land.

They couldn't help but be thoughtful. Realities went home to them that they had no time to admit. A fierce belief in their own sophistication had been their dominant point of view, a disillusioned point of view, a realization that the sea was the sea and the land was the land.

CUTICURA HEALS ITCHY SCALP

Pimples Broke Out, Spread to Face, Hair Fell Out.

"My trouble began with an itching and burning of the scalp. Later pimples broke out and when I scratched them sore eruptions formed on my scalp and around the edge of my hair. They were already far beyond the limits of ordinary tourist travel. The big boats piled as far as Anchorage at the head of Cook Inlet—to the north and east of them now—but beyond that point the traffic was largely that of occasional coastal traders, most of them auxiliary schooners of varying respectability. They seemed to have the ocean almost to themselves. Never to see the tip of a sail on the horizon, or a fisherman's craft scudding into port. And the solitude crept into the spirits of the passengers of the Charron.

It became vainly difficult to keep up a holiday atmosphere. It was increasingly hard to be gay, to fight down certain inner voices that had hitherto been stifled. Some way, life didn't seem quite the same, quite the gay dream it had hitherto been. And yet this immeasurable vista of desolate waters—icy cold for all the sunlight that kissed the up-reaching lips of the waves—was some way like a dream, too. The brain kept clear enough, but it was all somewhat confusing to an inner brain, a secret self that they had scarcely been aware of before. It was hard to say which was the more real—the gay life they had left, the laughter of which was still an echo in their ears, or these far-reaching wastes of wintry waters.

They couldn't help but be thoughtful. Realities went home to them that they had no time to admit. A fierce belief in their own sophistication had been their dominant point of view, a disillusioned point of view, a realization that the sea was the sea and the land was the land.

We keep these good things flowing to you like a battery with dry cells—power is lacking—energy gone—productive qualities at the lowest ebb. Mr. James Chaloupka, Sherman School, Channahon, Ohio, writes: "I feel like a new man after taking S.S.S. It gave me a better appetite and cleared my skin of pimples and blackheads."

Carefully selected, scientifically proportioned and prepared herbs and barks make up S.S.S.—the great blood purifier. Give nature a helping hand. to fall. This sunlit sea was too big for them; too big and too mighty and too old.

The trouble with Ned's generation was that it was a godless generation to the dust. Ned and his kind had come to be sufficient unto themselves. They had lost the wonder and fear of life, and that which nothing less than the loss of their wonder and fear of the great Author of life. To these life had been a game that they thought they had mastered. They had laughed at scorn the philosophies that a hundred generations of nobler men had built up with wisdom and ease. Made arrogant of nothing too big for them, no mystery that their contemptuous gaze could not penetrate, no wonder that their reckless hands could not unravel. They were the ultimate. Some of the old things had no more of their philosophies or their thoughts. It was true that churches doctored among them, that Charity received her due; but the old virtue faith, the reverent wonder, the mighty urge that has achieved all things that have been worth achieving were cold and dead in their hearts. But out here in this little, wind-blown craft, surrounded by an immensity of desolation beyond the power of their minds to grasp, it was hard to hold their old complacency. The old philosophies were barrenly insufficient, and they couldn't repel an ever deepening sense of awe. The wind, sweeping over them out of the vastness, was a new voice, striking the laughter from their lips and leaving a cold, fear in their hearts. The sun shone now, but soon vast areas, not far off, would be locked with light; never the movement of a wave, never the flash of a seabird's wing, never the wail of a gull's cry, thought over the wastes, and they humbled sobered them. Sometimes, alone on the deck at night, Ned was close to the dearest reality, the most profound discovery that could possibly touch his life: that the dreadful spirit of God moved upon the face generation. Seeing all they could not see, or hear, holding themselves superciliously aloof from that gracious wonder and simplicity that still blesses little children; but here was something that was insupportably beyond them. They couldn't laugh it away. They couldn't cast it out with a phrase of cheap slang, or despising it in order to hold firm to their own philosophy of self. Here was something that shook their old attitude of self-reliance and self-sufficiency to its foundations. They thought they knew life, these three life that they were bigger than they thought they had made, and found it out and stripped all delusions from it, but now their unutterable recoil, the pillar of their lives, was threatening.

Of these desolate waters, no less than as is told in Genesis, at creation's dawn. Everything would have been different if they had come in a larger boat, for instance, one of the great liners that plied between Seattle and Anchorage. In that case, likely they would have had no trouble in retelling their old point of view. The brooding tone of the North would have remained a holiday instead of the strange, wandering dream that it was. The reason was simply that on a liner they would not have broken all ties with their old life. There would have been games and dancing, the service of waiters, social intercourse and all the superfluities and pretenses that lead men now composed their lives. Their former standards, the attitudes from which their regarded life, would have been unaltered. There would have been no isolation, and thus no darkening of their moods, no haunting ing uneasiness that could not be named or described, no whispering voices heard but dimly out of the sea. They could have remained in their own old ramparts of callousness and scorn. But here they were alone—lost and far on an empty sea, under an empty sky.

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Dolly—Do you think that molasses syrup makes a good glue for bicycle tires. I know a boy who has quite a bit of trouble with his tires and he always patches them with molasses. Is that the right kind to use on them?

WORRIED BOY
They do say that "necessity is the mother of invention." And if that little boy conceived the idea of using molasses to fix his tires when there was nothing else in sight or when he could not afford to take them to the shop and have them fixed, I think he is somewhat of a genius, and we will hear from him later. I suppose he thought that if the molasses would stick tires together like it does two big slices of bread, it was a pretty good substitute for glue.

Dear Miss Wise—I am a young girl named Dolly and have been here for a month. Will you please tell me what is wrong with the girls and boys here? When I go to a dance the boys just dance all the time with the girls that they know and never ask to dance with anyone else. I have pretty clothes and wear them long. The boys just look at me and girls will stop on the street and stare at my girl friends and myself. The boys in the class that I would like to know act as if they are better than anyone else. Will you tell me what is wrong, for my friends and I are very lonesome.

QUEEN CITY GIRL
I don't think that there is anything wrong with the girls and boys here, except that they are probably so busy having a good time themselves that they forget about showing others a good time. Of course you cannot blame the boys for not asking you to dance with them if they do not know you. I think it is up to the person or persons who took you to the dance to see that you have a good time and meet all the meetable people there. If they have done that much for you then it is up to you to make the boys admire you enough to want to dance with you. You can catch more flies with molasses than

ASK YOUR NEIGHBOR
There is hardly a neighborhood in the United States where women cannot be found who have derived benefit from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For nearly fifty years this botanical medicine has been overcoming some of the worst forms of female ills. As one woman has been benefited by its use she has told others who have used it, with the same good results, so the use of this great medicine has spread from shore to shore by the recommendation of those who have found it good. Therefore, ask your neighbor; let her tell you from experience the benefit which ailing women derive from its use.

"I mustn't make a hole," he kept saying.

NANCY and Nick stayed with Miss Ter Gallon in his rocky cave when they were not traveling round with him on their ponies.

Each of them had a nice soft bed made out of sweetly pine needles and covered by soft Indian blankets.

At night when Snow and Blackie and Echo, the three ponies, were out eating sweet grass, and leaves of mountain daisies, which they dearly loved, their little master and mistress and the wee fairyman were dreaming fine dreams of new adventures.

But one night while they were sound asleep and dreaming dreams by the yard, something more real was happening.

Tippy Trade Mouse peeped in. The cave was as dark as a fruit cellar because the moonlight and star light couldn't leak in, but Tippy Trade Mouse's eyes were just made for the dark and he could see everything.

He sniffed at Mister Gallon's lasso and his high cowboy boots, and he sniffed at Nancy's clothes laid in a neat pile over a chair back, and he sniffed at the magic shoes standing in a neat row under the beds.

Then he came to Nick's clothes laid in a pile at the foot of his bed ready to jump into in the morning.

Tippy Trade Mouse jumped up and sniffed at Nick's clothes. "Ah, ha!" he said with his bright little eyes. "Here's the very thing I've been wanting!" And he took Nick's shirt in his teeth and dragged it out into the moonlight.

Then he set to work and chewed and chewed and chewed. "I mustn't make a hole, I'll have to be very careful!"

After while he finished what he was doing, and dragged the shirt back again.

Then he went away, carrying something in his mouth.

And by and by he came back carrying something else in his mouth and laid it in the shirt.

This he did six times. Then he left for good.

"Oh, look!" cried Nick when he went to put his shirt on next morning. "Somebody's cut all the buttons off my shirt and left six little stones instead."

"It's Tippy Trade Mouse, as sure as anything," said Mister Gallon. "He is always trading something for something else, and nobody knows what he wants it for."

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES — UNDER THE GROUND

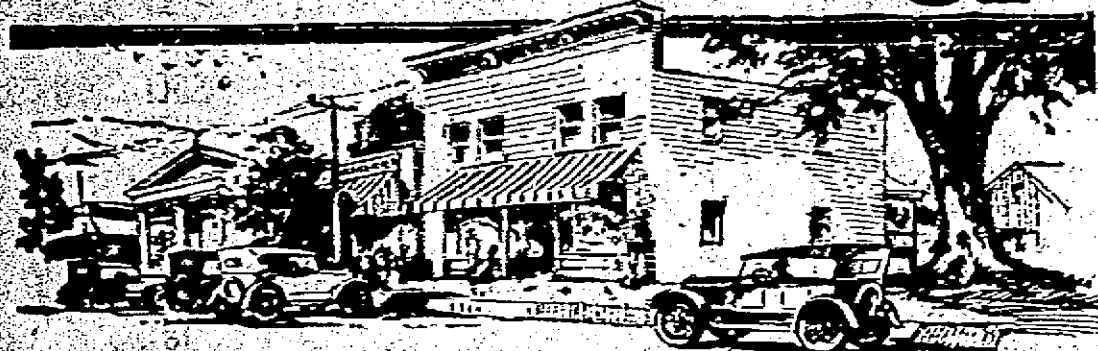

"Do you know who that is?" shouted one of the little guides. "Why it seems that I have seen many pictures of him," replied Jack. "Well," snapped the guide, "you probably have. It's Old King Koal himself." And then Jack was led right up to meet the merry old soul.

"How do you do?" said the king. "How would you like to see my three fiddlers?" "Oh," exclaimed Jack. "I certainly would." So while one servant was bringing the king a pipe and another was bringing him a bowl of porridge, Jack sat down to await the arrival of the fiddlers.

"Won't you have some of my porridge?" asked the king. "No," replied Jack. "Thank you, but I'm not hungry." And then he heard pretty music in the distance. "It's the fiddlers," shouted one of the guides. And at that moment, in came the three fiddlers, playing and dancing. (Continued.)

Towboat J. T. Hatfield Hits Rock In Ohio Near Ironton; Sinks

The towboat J. T. Hatfield, one of the largest towboats operating on the Ohio river, struck a rock while moving down stream Monday evening and sank in several feet of water at a point midway between Ashland, Ky., and Ironton. A large hole was ripped in the hull when it hit the obstruction and the vessel sank quickly and when it finally rested on the bottom of the river the first deck was covered with four feet of water.

None of the crew was injured or endangered as all reached the upper deck in safety before the boat went down.

The boat, which is owned by the E. J. Hickey Transportation company of Covington, Ky., will be raised, the last having already started. Little trouble is anticipated in floating the boat as she is in pool, or still water.

The J. T. Hatfield is one of the oldest towboats on the Ohio river and has carried coal between Charleston, W. Va., and Louisville for many years. It was stated today that the boat was not seriously damaged and may be afloat in a few days.

Death Claims Milty Thornton

Milty Thornton, probably known by many people as the "hot" player in Portsmouth, a life-long resident of this city, has made his longest journey. He died in a hospital at 5:45 p. m. Tuesday, after being ill with diabetes.

News of the death of Milty Thornton came as a big shock to his legion of friends for only several physical ailments and attending nurses knew he was in the city or back from his long drive to and from Florida. There was not a section of the city in which Milty Thornton was not known to the old as well as the young.

He had been a familiar figure about the city with his hot poker wagon, music box and cornet. It was a year ago this last April that Milty started to drive his faithful horse to Florida. He had announced that he might spend the remainder of his life there. Several months ago though, friends here received post cards from him bringing the news that he was returning North and that Portsmouth would be his destination. Several weeks ago Battery B and Combat Train members on their return from Camp Knox told of meeting Milty en route home. Later he was seen on the road near Louisville by local travelers. Last Friday he arrived at Hempstead Hospital with a serious infection in his right hand and arm and foot. Dr. T. C. Crawford was called to attend him. He found Milty suffering with diabetes and gangrene and his condition critical. All that human hands could do was done to prolong his life, but all efforts were futile. Tuesday afternoon he was reported in a dying condition.

When he entered the hospital he told the attending physician that he left his horse and wagon about two miles from Winchester as he wanted to get here in a hurry for treatment. He also told the physician that he did not have any relatives here and his sister, Mrs. Bertha Englebrecht of 317 Front street, did not know he was in the local hospital until after he had passed away. The Englebrecht family moved back to Portsmouth just after Milty left last year and he did not know they were here. They had resided in Columbus.

Milty Thornton was a lifelong resident of Portsmouth as he was born on lower Sixth street, a son of George and Dorothy Thornton. He was about 63 years of age, the eldest child in a family of seven children.

He lived in the West End of the city most of his life. He was a locksmith and paperhanger, but for the past 20 years had manufactured and sold his famous hot poker and ice cream candy.

Surviving are the following brothers and sisters: Clarence (Dick) Thornton of Los Angeles, Edwin Thornton of Circleville, Mrs. Bernard Gergan of Cincinnati, Mrs. Lulu Cullen of Chicago and Mrs. Bertha Englebrecht of Front street.

The body was removed from Hempstead Hospital to the Deane-Hartford mortuary.

For many years Milty was a familiar character in the old First Ward, where he was known and respected by everyone. He was kind and charitable to all and was always willing to assist anyone in trouble, as kindness was his biggest asset.

To Vote On $100,000 Bond Issue For New County Jail

Election in Portsmouth and Scioto County will vote on a $100,000 bond issue at the November election, this sum to be used in building the new county jail in conjunction with the $550,000 court house at Sixth and Court streets.

Members of the building commission and the county commissioners stated Wednesday that steps have been taken to provide for the bond issue.

"With this sum, a jail in keeping with the court house can be built and the money will not have to be taken from the original court house fund," a member of the commission said today.

The present jail has been an eyesore for 25 years and has been criticized by every grand jury during these years.

Japanese

(Continued From Page One) most urgent necessities are food and shelter. The interior railroad seems to have been paralyzed. Fortunately most of Japan can be reached from ports. Enough Japanese shipping is available to transport food from one port to the other but the supplies which can be rushed from China and the Philippines will be of great help. The American government can help most, it is pointed out, by rushing tents and cereals.

At best it will take several days for food supplies to reach Japan. Officials think that the destruction of the business area of Tokyo and Yokohama with the loss of the warehouses means a serious food crisis that can hardly be remedied before starvation must take its toll. The greatest fear is held that the sanitary system of Tokyo having broken down will not soon be restored and that epidemics are inevitable. The Japanese army is expected to adopt forceful measures to clean up the city as many survivors as possible so the supply of food and sanitation can be regulated, but all this will take several days. Meanwhile the anxiety over what is transpiring today is intense.

Japan has just been in the throes of an economic depression which has for three years kept Japanese industry in a state of uncertainty. The bottom of the depression had been reached. The depression was similar to that experienced by the United States except that the Japanese recovery has been much slower.

When, therefore, the waste of the living have been attended to and the population eased for these will be an even greater crisis. Banks in Japan are bound to be ruined unless the government helps. The possibility of a huge relief loan to be floated by the Japanese government in America is talked of but until some definite word is received from the Tokyo government as to the extent of the damage nothing definite along that line can even be estimated. Something governmental will have to be done in Japan to help private business. As for a loan, the credit of the Japanese government abroad is excellent and this would have no difficulty in raising virtually any sum as her national wealth is intact.

Though officials of the American government do not care to comment on it, they are aware that a blow at Japanese-American trade has been struck by the hand of fate and that the purchasing power of the Japanese people will be affected by the disaster. Word that all members of the American embassy staff were safe was communicated by the Department of State to the Japanese embassy where relief was expressed at their good fortune. The Japanese embassy expects the government wireless stations not far from Tokyo to be working before another twenty-four hours have elapsed and that a courier telegraph system will be established by the government so that the entire world may be apprised of Japan's needs and the extent of her loss.

It takes an earthquake or a disaster somehow to demonstrate how close together the peoples of the world really are. There isn't a thought here today except of suffering people, not a thought of color or race distinction or of any other rivalries—all are united in extending to Japan the hand of help. No demonstrations such as these are built after all the most comforting friendships.

Feed Twice As Much Chowder

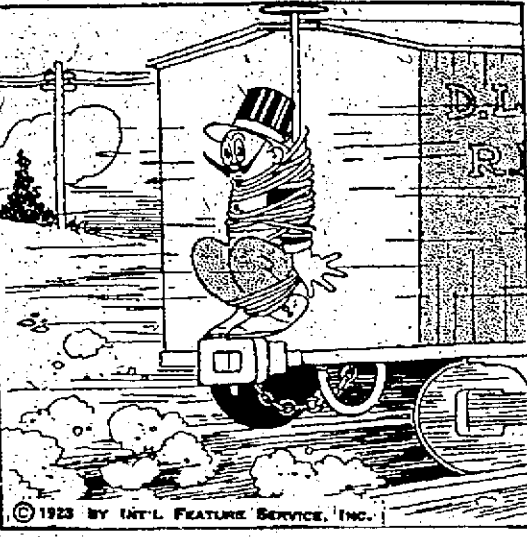

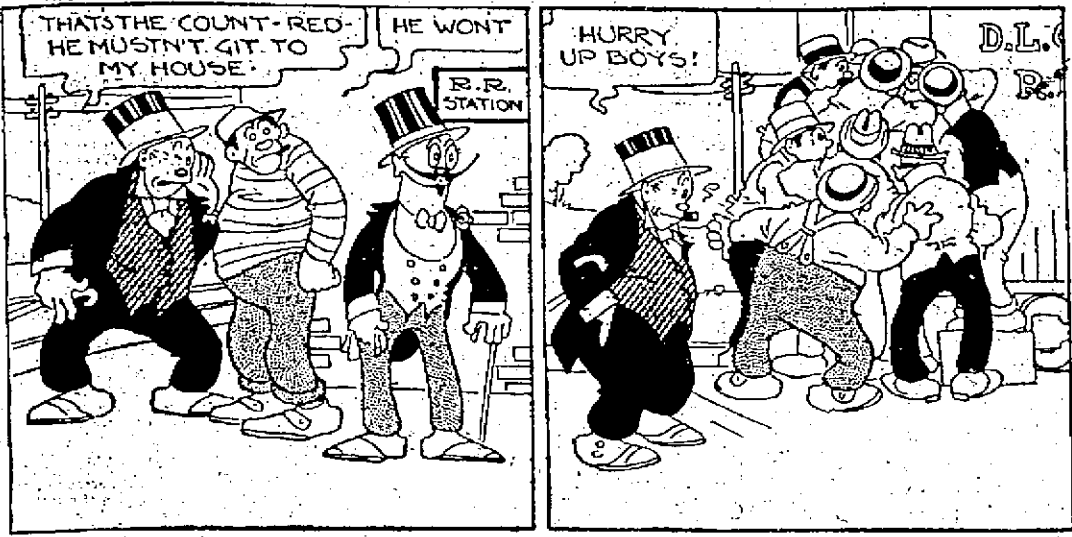

A balanced ration for poultry is not the same in summer as it is in winter. Right now you should be feeding twice as much Chowder as Hen Chow (by weight). Too much grain makes hens fat and lazy. Twice as much Chowder keeps them cool and prepares them for the molt and heavy winter egg production. Drop in and we will show you why.

Board Take Steps To Abandon Dumps;
Revive Plans For Incinerating Plant

The City Board of Health in session yesterday afternoon took the first official step in the movement started recently by Mayor W. N. Taberna for a change in the removal and disposal of garbage by adoption of a resolution declaring the garbage dumps situated at Cleveland and Washington streets and at the foot of Glover street, constitute public nuisances, and ordering them abandoned within one year.

The board also directed Clerk John W. Berndt to communicate its action pertaining to the garbage situation to City Council and the Director of Public Service, with the following recommendations: "That the city construct one or more garbage incinerating plants as soon as possible; and that the city institute a more modern system for the collection of garbage by providing water-tight and covered vehicles.

The proposition will probably be brought to the attention of Council for its consideration at its regular meeting Wednesday evening.

Sanitary Police Officer William West advised that he had received many complaints of noxious weeds growing on vacant lots throughout the city which constitute nuisances and he was authorized to confer with the city solicitor with a view of ascertaining the proper course to pursue to have the weeds cut.

The schedule amounting to $909.28 was allowed and the following reports were read and ordered filed: By Dr. O. D. Tatje, health commissioner—reportable diseases: diphtheria, 2; scarlet fever, 3; typhoid fever, 6; tuberculosis, 6; pneumonia, 1; smallpox, 1; venereal diseases, 7.

Forty physical examinations on children going to work; three cultures for release of diphtheria; nine homes quarantined and fire released from quarantine; eighteen nuisances investigated; an inspection of dairies is now being made.

Dr. T. C. Crawford, city physician—107 house visits; 35 office calls; two cases labor and four vaccinations.

William West, plumbing inspector—184 inspections; 120 complaints investigated; 63 plumbing permits issued and $206 in fees collected.

Vital statistics—28 deaths, with a rate of .80; measles 1, pneumonia 2, tuberculosis 4, typhoid 1, enteritis 5, all others 16; 8 infant deaths, 31 births giving a rate of 1.80.

Money loaned at 6 per cent on Portsmouth improved real estate. No loans made on less than $1000.

Giant Dirigible

The dirigible, which was built by the navy, is the largest of its kind in the world. It is 300 feet long, 40 feet in diameter, and weighs 100,000 pounds. It is capable of carrying 100 passengers and 100 tons of cargo. It is the first dirigible to be built in the United States since the first one was built in 1900. The dirigible was built by the navy at the Naval Air Station at Lakehurst, N. J. It was built by the navy to be used for the purpose of carrying mail and passengers across the Atlantic Ocean. for the Atlantic Ocean. As she rose, two airplanes, one representing the army and the other the navy, left the ground to accompany the balloon on her maiden voyage.

Nearly 400 men were required to hold the giant ship as she was slowly dragged from the hangar. About 250 hung on the ropes while the rest clung to the fore and aft cars.

Shortly after being taken from the hangar the holding ropes on the aft car broke and the ship rose rapidly in the air. The aft pilot, however, soon brought it under control.

Just before the ropes were cast off one of the weather experts released a smoke bomb. The large crowd which had gathered to watch the flight was greatly alarmed, thinking the gas bomb was about to explode. Officers, however, soon restored order and the ship slowly and gracefully took the air.

Leviathan Taken Over.
NEW YORK, September 5.—For the first time today the steamship Leviathan was in the possession of the United States flag. The actual transfer of the great liner from F. H. and W. P. Gibbs, engineers who reconditioned her to the shipping board fleet, took place at one minute after midnight today.

Representatives of the shipping board, experts, shipmasters, mechanics and accountants, worked for hours making the inspections and inventories preceding the transfer. The shipmen pronounced satisfaction in the possession of the huge craft.

Red Cross

The Red Cross has placed an advance relief fund at the immediate disposal of American diplomatic and consular officers in the stricken area.

Despite the continued handicap of communication difficulties, the state department today was pressing its efforts to obtain information as to the condition of the stricken zone.

Not only have lists of those of whom relatives and friends have sought information been sent to American diplomatic and consular officers in Japan, but consular officers stationed at other points in the Orient have been ordered there to assist in the work of obtaining information as to the condition of the stricken zone.

In addition to the seven destroyers of the American Asiatic fleet proceeding with relief supplies for the suffering, the cruiser Huxon, flagship of Admiral Anderson, commanding the fleet, was steaming at full speed for Yokohama today with full speed for the relief supplies.

Tomorrow morning, Manila advices also said the army transport Meigs would leave there today, laden with relief supplies for Yokohama. She will be followed by the transport Morrill. In addition the war department has ordered a survey of surplus supplies.

League's Right

Mussolini is Defiant.
LONDON, September 5.—(By the A. P.) Italy will make her terms for the evacuation of Corfu more onerous if Greece delays in fulfilling the terms of her ultimatum, Premier Mussolini is quoted by the Daily Mail Home correspondent as declaring.

High Drama Played.
GENEVA, September 5.—(By the Associated Press.)—A high political drama was played at Geneva today when Greece appeared before a hurriedly convened public session of the council of the League of Nations and announced new terms for a settlement with Italy. The Greek proposals were as follows:

"The Greek government suggests: First, that the council should appoint one or more neutral representatives (a) to superintend in Greece the judicial inquiry which the Greek authorities have already begun and also the trial of those responsible for the Janina murders; (b) assist in the work of the commission with Greece as proposed through the council of ambassadors for investigating in Albania and Greece the circumstances which preceded and accompanied the crime.

"Secondly, that the council should instruct a commission composed of high judicial authorities, Greek, Italian and neutral, for example, the President of the Swiss Federal Tribunal, or the President of the permanent court of international justice—to meet as soon as possible at Geneva to settle the amount of indemnity which is just that we should pay the families of the victims.

"Thirdly, that the council should agree that the Greek government forthwith deposit in a bank in Switzerland fifty million lire as a guarantee for the immediate payment of whatever indemnity may be decided upon."

Clash Of Favours.
Those who succeeded in entering the council chamber witnessed a courteous but firm wordy clash between Signor Salandra and M. Poincaré, Italian and Greek delegates, respectively, an amiable tossing of oil on the troubled waters by Lord Robert Cecil, and witnessed also a proceeding which puts up to Italy for the second time the question as to whether she will accept in any form whatsoever the assistance of the league in regulating her difficulties with Greece.

M. Poincaré, who was born and reared in Corfu, played his second stroke today but Signor Salandra, won his point in insisting in presenting his new proposal. M. Poincaré should get down to hard facts, without attempting to argue the justice of Greek cause.

Hartford, Conn. Man Missing.

Wide Breach Between Men And Owners In Coal Issues

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 5.—(By the Associated Press.)—Issue between mine operators and the Miners' Union in the anthracite region, will be canvassed again today before Governor Pinchot by representatives of both sides. Greer proposes which the governor advanced to avert the suspension are still under consideration, although attitudes of both the "employers' group, and the Union leaders were today still holding them far away from an agreement.

Governor Pinchot expected to meet the disputants in executive session. Although the governor has suggested that a ten per cent wage increase be given the miners, that all but eight hour employment be eliminated, that the Union "be recognized and given opportunity to collect dues in company offices, and that collective bargaining principles be followed in the industry's relationship between employer and employee, the program had not won acceptance when the meeting began today.

Anthracite operators indicated it would be accepted only on condition that the contract made with the Union and incorporating the provisions named, be fixed to run a term of years, with annual wage revisions controlled by arbitration. The Union, unyielding in opposition to arbitration, has asked a greater percentage of increase in wages of all day workers, and has, while tendering renewed negotiations, stood by its other demands, including that for "check-off" collection of Union dues.

SAN FRANCISCO, September 5.—(By The A. P.)—Improvement in conditions in Tokyo was reported in wireless advices received from Iwakura station, 155 miles north of Tokyo by the Radio Corporation.

The water supply system has been repaired and is furnishing water in all sections of the capital. Street lighting has been restored in four wards and food supplies have begun to arrive at nearby points.

Six naval vessels, arrived at Yokohama and Shinagawa (a point on the bay of Tokyo, close to Shiba ward of Tokyo city, one of the scenes of greatest devastation, with cargoes of rice.

Vicount Takahashi, head of the Seiyukai party, who yesterday was reported to have been killed with 20 of his party, followers by collapse of a building where they were holding a meeting is safe, the advices said, as is also his residence.

A home office estimate places the dead in Tokyo at 50,000 and those in Yokohama at 100,000 with many injured in both cities.

RED CROSS TO CARRY ON RELIEF WORK HERE FOR STRICKEN JAPAN

Delegates Make Report To Kiwanians

That vacation days are over was demonstrated at Wednesday's meeting of the Kiwanis Club, held at the Mary Louise. The attendance was most gratifying—the largest for several weeks, while the enthusiasm was manifest on every hand. President William Altsman complimented the members upon their attendance and the interest and predicted the club would do its greatest work this fall and winter.

The two delegates to the state meeting held at Cedar Point, H. Glen Duls and Sheppard Johnson, gave splendid reports, showing they were constantly on the job during this session of the many clubs in Ohio. W. W. Gates ran the gauntlet that falls to the lot of all those who would link up with the club. He stood up wonderfully well during the gruelling initiatory feasts and came off a sure winner. The members were glad indeed to welcome Brother Gates into the fold. He is one of Portsmouth's most prominent citizens and men of his caliber and character will add strength to any club.

But scant reference was made to the Kiwanis-Exchange baseball game. It seemed to be a very painful subject, and Captain Ed V. Leach unobscured any attempt the members made toward holding a post-mortem on the game. A few close friends conceded to a return game would not be discussed until a real pitcher was secured. This might be construed that Captain Leach lays most of the blame of defeat on the work of the batters, particularly those who tried to "re-Here Pitcher Frank Apple and who could not have located the plate with a surveyor's instrument.

Expresses Sympathy To Japanese Embassy

Manager Adam Frick, of the Chamber of Commerce, Wednesday sent the following resolution to the Japanese Embassy in Washington, D. C.:

His Excellency—The Portsmouth Chamber of Commerce, by resolution of its Board, wishes to express to you its extreme sorrow of its members, occasioned by the great misfortune that has visited the Japanese Empire. This uncounted loss of human life and property, one of the greatest on record, cannot be understood by any and because of this lack of infinite wisdom, we cannot and words that will convey our sympathy in a manner that will fittingly meet the situation.

We, therefore, in our most humble way, send our words along with those from other citizens and express the hope that they will find the conditions improving, and that God in His infinite wisdom will care for and protect the distressed, and that this terrible thing may not occur again.

Respectfully submitted, THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE, For ROBERT G. BRYAN, President. Attest: ADAM FRICK, Manager.

Send Contributions To A. E. Singleton

no doubt respond in their characteristic liberal manner. The disaster is one of the worst in all history and Scioto county will do its share towards alleviating the suffering existing in Japan.

Racer Killed In Wreck At Altoona ALTOONA, Pa., September 5.—Howard Wilcox, veteran Indianapolis auto racer, was fatally injured in the inaugural 200-mile race on the new Altoona speedway this afternoon when his car skidded and overturned on the 17th lap. His neck was broken. Wilcox died a few minutes later as he was being taken to an emergency hospital at the speedway grounds. Wilcox was in third place when the accident occurred.

Driving the 200-mile grind without a stop, Eddie Heavine, another veteran driver, won the race. His time was 1:37.35 at the rate of 114 1/2 miles per hour. Jerry Wunderlich was second, Dave Lewis third, Fred Corner fourth, Benny Hill fifth, Frank Elliott sixth, Leon Lewis seventh and Tony Mills eighth.

In addition to Wilcox four other drivers did not finish the race. They were Harlan Pongler, Earl Cooper, Harry Haritz and L. L. Corum. All were forced out by engine trouble, Haritz car catching fire.

On the first curve of the 17th lap, Wilcox drove so low on the banking that he was temporarily on the dirt. He swerved to get back on the plank and his wheels struck the oil soaked boards at the track edge. The car then whirled completely around and rolled over several times.

Portsmouth Officials Scored By McDonald For Lax Enforcement

COLUMBUS, September 5.—The State Prohibition law is not being enforced in the big cities of Ohio as it should be, B. F. McDonald, State Prohibition Director, declared in a report of his department to Governor Denney today.

Speaking particularly of Columbus, Youngstown, Cincinnati, Toledo, Steubenville, Akron, Leban, Hamilton, Niles and Portsmouth were listed by Mr. McDonald as cities where officials are not "enforcing the state prohibition law as they should."

Speaking particularly of Columbus, Mr. McDonald said "that officials are influenced by a dominating wet sentiment and politics, rather than by their obligation to uphold the constitution and the law they have taken an oath to support.

This condition does not obtain, he said, in rural sections, "with the exception of Perry County."

"A majority of the citizens in that county apparently seem disposed to be violators and the county officials are not disposed to give aid in the enforcement of the law," McDonald asserted.

He said that a "thorough effort has been put forth to carry out the policies of the administration for strict yet sane enforcement and, in so doing, everyone is treated alike."

Civil Service Reform League Seeks To Lessen Burden Of Presidential Office

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—(By the A. P.)—Measures designed to relieve the Chief Executive from the important duties of office seekers were recommended to President Coolidge today by a committee of National Civil Service Reform League headed by the organization's president, William Dudley Foulke.

The committee declared that such an order would effectually dispose of patronage disputes.

A similar order to cover the fourth class postmasters and rural carriers was urged.

Changes suggested would affect the distribution of appointments of approximately 120,000 federal employees and would in the view of the committee greatly decrease the work of the president.

Members of the committee declined to say what attitude the president had taken toward the resolution.

Forty-One Years In Grocery Business Is The Record Of Mr. J. F. Menke

In the grocery business more than forty-one years and still going, that is the record of J. F. Menke, who conducts his place of business at the corner of Hatch and Grant streets.

Born in Hanover, Germany, he came to this country when he was six months old, his family moving to Harrison Furnace.

"Until the winter of my seventeenth year, Mr. Menke took his times, but after that, I went to school for five months, walking four miles morning and evening to school. After that intensive training I passed the county examination and obtained a school at Empire Furnace near Pottsville.

"I taught here for five years, moving to Portsmouth in 1882. I moved to town because teaching was too confining, and I thought that if I had a grocery I could get out more.

"I bought out my brother-in-law, John Amos, and kept the store on the southeast corner of Eleventh and Guy.

"In 1883 I moved to the southwest corner of Eleventh and Findlay, staying there until January, 1890. At this time George Schmidt and I went into partnership, buying the lot central Grocery in the Kleiger building at the site of the present Joseph Brown store.

Wheat Shows Upward Trend Due To Sale Report

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Reports that Greece had bought 20,000 tons of wheat for September shipment from the United States was a factor today in causing wheat to average 10¢ to 11¢ higher in price during the early dealings. Firmness of Liverpool quotations in the face of yesterday's decline here counted also as a bullish influence. On the other hand, suspension of business by a grain company here as a result of financial difficulties acted as a check on buyers. The opening, which varied from 1/2 to 1/4 cent higher with Sept. 1.01 to 1.02 1/4 and Dec. 1.06 to 1.06 1/4 was followed by a moderate setback and then somewhat of rally.

PRIMA FACIE EVIDENCE

THEY are always adding some new wrinkle in the more or less desultory effort to enforce aridness through statute. In this line the state prohibition department has ordered executive officers, where there is a conviction for selling intoxicants in a building, to proceed to render the property liable under the old Dow Law. This law, slumbered into incineration after the eighteenth amendment was adopted, but is now awakened as to the paragraph, which provides that where there are illegal sales of liquor on premises a fine equal to the license tax, $1,000, may be levied against the premises themselves, if not paid otherwise.

The sting is that the fine may be levied, whether the owner or a renter made the sale and the conviction is prima facie evidence the owner had notice, was in fact consenting to the sale. Prima facie means on the face, and when used in a legal sense, throws the burden of proof the other way, that is to say, in a liquor case, instead of the ordinary course of the state having to prove the sale was made with the knowledge of the owner of the premises the owner would have to prove to the satisfaction of the court and the jury that he had no such knowledge. As can be seen that makes for quite a difference to the accused.

AN APPALLING CATASTROPHE

THE world has never known nature more destructive in her angry moods than in the earthquake with which she has just shaken Japan. In her own resources she swept broad with calamity, but with the incident of man's invention she maims and over crowded shacks of a great city, her destructiveness took the dimensions of an appalling catastrophe.

Tens of thousands suffered most horrible deaths by burial, crushing and fire, with famine of food and water confronting the survivors.

The suddenness and expansiveness of the catastrophe have shocked the whole world and at the same time have produced a quick and responsive sympathy. Relief, trained nurses to aid the injured and food are being rushed to the stricken island as fast as railroads and ships can carry. It is pleasant to note that America is first and foremost in this grand work. Indeed, before this country had been apprised of the full extent of the catastrophe, American ships, with food supplies, were within a few hours away, having stopped at a Chinese port and loaded hastily and heavily with rice and beans.

One blessing may come to Japan out of her misfortune. It is that in the great heart of the American people there is no enmity towards her. Those whose business it is to carry on wars may talk all they please about future hostilities between America and Japan, but the people here heed them not.

THE FIGURES SPEAK

NOT infrequently public complaints are made that trade between the two Americas does not reach the proportions it should and then there is unpleasant comment on the character of South Americans and criticisms of the methods of North American firms.

One seems to be quite as unfounded as the other. South Americans have their national ways. They are not like ours, but that isn't saying anything to the reprobation of either.

If it would be borne in mind that the nations to the south are not as fully developed as the United States that might help to better understanding. From climatic and isolated conditions their wants are not as varied as ours. They show no hostility towards trading with us and that our tradesmen treat them satisfactorily is evidenced in a constantly increasing commerce between. This year's treasury figures show South America bought from the United States something like four hundred million dollars more in products, mostly manufactured, of course, than it bought in the year previous. That is a most healthy increase, ample evidence of no aversion and that this constant reiteration of American indifference to the wants of a constituency has no more foundation than constant iteration gives to a condition that has no existence in fact. So specifically, it is high time to discontinue berating others and deciding our own skill and intelligence. Generally we should more constantly toot our own horn. May be some way other peoples have practices better than ours; may be also they do make some things better than we do. Still it is also true we have some better ways than other nations. For one thing we are much more energetic in the pursuit of business. No American house is contented to go on as it went 100 years ago, admitting the impossible supposition that it be that old. It seeks a newer and better way than it had a decade ago. Americans are at the top in expedition. There are many things they make the best, almost without approach in quality, say for instance, shoes, sewing machines, locomotives, automobiles, farm machinery and electrical supplies.

Why, the United States have in use a thousand little utilities that the rest of the earth hasn't dreamed of as yet. We may wear no gold medals for etiquette, but when it comes to good fellowship and treating the trade right, none approach us, the people of these United States.

New York=Day=By=Day

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—This is not for the ladies. It is going to be a day of those frank, intimate talks with men and out of it let us hope will grow a better understanding—a mutual helpfulness. Close all the doors, please. And let there be no tittering.

In the beginning, permit me to say, it has been my observation that most of us are vain. We simulate a modesty, nonchalance, that is not ours. We may have outgrown the flaming blush, but in an embarrassing moment we suffer. Our vanity is puffed.

More than once I have been in the midst of a crowd, all dressed up and sprightly. Out of the nowhere would come a sharp, staccato, stinging against my ankle. Somebody had stepped on my garter. Looking down I would gaze on soft folds of hosiery falling over the shoe top.

In a durry of confusion I would hit to a protecting doorway and hurriedly yank, pull and snap. Then raise up and stroll off, whistling as though nothing whatever had happened. I could feel a hundred eyes burrowing into my back and picture the amused half-derisive smiles.

The other day on a crowded thoroughfare I was conscious of another hosiery debacle. No metal was touching me. For one usually so dully, I thought fast. I stopped and began looking into the skies, cupping my eyes with my hands.

A crowd behind me followed my gaze. I almost a jiffy the sidewalk crowds had stopped to scan the heavens. Then as quick as a cat could wink I righted the matter, walked on, leaving the crowds still staring.

There is no copyright on the idea. You who have suffered similarly are welcome to the little discovery. It is going to save you many tortuous moments. Pass out quietly, please.

The number of the stage phone at the police has been changed to Chickerling 0500. A chick with every cell, as it were. Someone has suggested the central should be changed to Mansfield.

Follies girls, no doubt, suffer from the naughty gallery of the production in which they appear. They bear the stamp of frailty as typified by the virus. Any number of them live up to the public estimation. Life is an unceasing round of froth, but there are also many who are never seen on Broadway, and who are merely using the Follies as a step.

Why, the United States have in use a thousand little utilities that the rest of the earth hasn't dreamed of as yet. We may ping stone to more worth while achievements on the stage. They go direct to the theatre from their homes and direct to their homes after the performance. Unfortunately they are not the chorus girls with limousines, but they live long after the fleeting glories of the head-onists.

There is a story of a chorus girl in another type of musical show who has been in New York four years. She has lived in a religious atmosphere all the while. She has studied French, music and elocution and helped her parents back home. Recently she abandoned the stage and became a governess in the home of a wealthy family. She explained she saw no future on the stage for those who are earnest and sincere.

The young lady exhibits a species of weakness that is entirely too common. The curse of environment is a peg upon which many hang the cloak of ambition. Over Kidare, the Bowery poet, was an East Side bartender. John Maschell, the poet, used to clean cuspidors in a Greenwich Village rookery. By an accident of birth one of the shrewdest men I know in a highly specialized business was born in a barn.

And one of the most successful actresses spent her early years in the atmosphere of a water front grocery. (Copyright 1923, by The McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

The Bibliomaniac's Prayer
Keep me, I pray, in wisdom's way,
That I may truths eternal seek
I need protecting care today—
My purse is light, my flesh is weak.
So banish from my erring heart
All bafe appetites and hints
Of Satan's fascinating art,
Of first editions and of prints.
Direct me in some godly walk
Which leads away from bookish strife.

That I with piety deed and talk
May extra-illustrate my life.
But if, O Lord, it please thee
To keep me in temptation's sway,
I humbly ask that I may be
Most nobly best today.
Let temptation be a book
Which I shall purchase, hold, and keep—
Whereon when other men shall look,
They'll weep to know I got it cheap;
Oh, let it such a volume be
As in rare copper plates abounds,
Large paper clean and fair to see,
Unique, unique, unknown to Lowndes.

Yes, This Is Awful
Men think that girls
Were meant for kissin'
And girls think men
Were meant to listen.

The Good Old Days

"When the frost is on the pumpkin"
And the pumpkin's in the pies,
When the "skeeter" stops her singin'
And the kitchen's free of flies;
Oh, the milk will keep the sweeter,
For no microbes multiply
When the frost is on the pumpkin
And the pumpkin's in the pies.

Ain't It So!
The older a little girl gets the more her candy costs.

There was a family reunion at the Jake Bentley farm today, and after a merry meal was partook of the relatives paired off an enjoyed the afternoon knockin' n' brushin' up ole boots. "What we need is more good, hard rains n' drive th' women off th' streets an' home where they belong," said mean ole Ez Pash this mornin'.
